WELCOME

If you are reading this message you have already taken the first step towards the greatest adventure of your life; the journey into self-discovery. Whether you want to become a Yoga teacher or you want to apply the ancient teachings to evolve your personal practice, you will discover this training is about your self – mastery.

When we came together to create the content for our school our main focus was to create a training that was accessible to all students regardless of age, skill level, or ability. Based on that philosophy we offer you an accessible, multi- style approach to Yoga that applies the ancient wisdom teachings to our Western culture.

Our skilled faculty of passionate trainers are devoted to your personal transformation and growth in a supportive and inspiring environment. You'll learn all the tools to teach Yoga and engage in a meaningful journey of self discovery.

~ Namaste

COURSE OVERVIEW

This is a 200-hour Teacher Training Program that meets and exceeds the guidelines set by Yoga Alliance International. You will be immersed in the course over a month-long period during which time you will have the full support of the training of our faculty. In addition to the face-to-face training, there is a distance-learning portion to be completed within two months after the course is complete. The style of Yoga will be classical Vinyasa/Hatha. No prior training is required however, we do suggest that you have a regular Yoga practice and a keen interest in deepening your knowledge of the practice, history, lifestyle, and philosophy of Yoga.

Your training course will be guided by Uriel MacGillivary, Kyla MacKinnon, Nikki Martin, Stephanie Morton, and Kevin Dougall.

Training will take place in the Halifax Regional Municipality. Depending on group size, we will meet at one of our Shanti studios or another centrally located space.

TRAINING FACULTY

Our training course will be guided by Uriel MacGillivary, Kyla MacKinnon, Nikki Martin, Stephanie Morton and Kevin Dougall.

Uriel MacGillivary

Uriel is a yoga teacher, an entrepreneur, and a leader of transformational Yoga teacher trainings and retreats across the Globe. She is the founder of Shanti Yoga Studios and the Shanti Traditional School of Yoga based in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Having held senior management and marketing roles in Corporate Canada for twenty years she answered the call to become a yoga teacher. A life-changing journey to India to study the ancient teachings would transform her life. Overnight she walked away from everything that she knew and started a phase in her life that would take her on the adventure of a lifetime. Stepping into her true purpose she recognized that students longed for the same deep transformation in their lives. Her studios and teaching philosophy are guided by the values of the time-honoured wisdom teachings of the Yoga tradition.

Led by masters such as the late Georg Feurerstein, of the Traditional School of Yoga and Suzanne Anderson on the Psychology of Archetypes, her main focus is to help students upgrade the way they lead, love, and live through the power of Yoga. My vision is clear she says: “I believe in the power of Yoga to transform lives and inspire students to awaken their soul’s calling”.

Kyla MacKinnon

Kyla is inspired by the act of leading others and empowering them to live their truth. She believes in the power of connecting breath and movement with those around her. Throughout her life, she has enjoyed coaching people and creating a space where they feel comfortable and confident in order to reach their full potential. From her 800 hours of training, she vows to keep the tradition of Krishnamacharya's Yoga lineage alive thanks to one of her great teachers, Ryan Leier.

Kyla will incorporate a balance of strength and serenity into her teachings during the program. Her compassionate nature makes her a perfect fit as the YTT student liaison. She gives herself fully to new trainees who need guidance and support during the training.

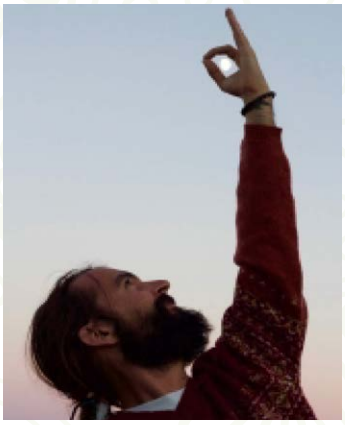

Nikki Martin

Nikki came to Yoga in 2011. Drawn by the strength, grace and challenge of arm balances and inversions, and a desire to finally forge a path to peace and happiness in her life. She quickly fell in love with the practice of Yoga as a whole and how it enriched all facets of her life, and though she still loves the physical challenges it presents her practice is now driven by spirituality, philosophy, energetics and the powerful impact Yoga has both on her life and in the world. She has become a passionate advocate for diversity in Yoga and wellness and in 2020 co-founded the Black Wellness Cooperative, a not-for-profit that works to bring wellness resources to underserved communities. Her hope over the coming years is to be part of a movement making Yoga, fitness and wellness spaces more inclusive, accessible and diverse.

© 2027 Shanti Yoga Teacher Training

She completed her 200hr YTT with Shanti Yoga, the same studio where she was inspired by her teachers to deepen her practice and eventually follow her dream of becoming a Yoga teacher full time. Along the way she discovered a passion for teaching other teachers and helping them discover their own gifts and destinies along this path. Inspired to be more and to know more she has assisted a 200hr YTT to be certified as a Teacher Trainer, taken her Yin TT, attended various workshops and trainings in meditation, facilitation, and leadership as well as social justice issues with industry leaders. She has completed her 300hr YTT with Rene Quenell, in a Tantra lineage descended from the Himalayan masters. She is passionate about honouring tradition while meeting students where they are and brings a wealth of knowledge to each and every class along with her playful, creative and fiery teaching style.

As a writer and storyteller, she loves the idea that a Yoga class can lead you somewhere, that you can tell a story with body and breath and the energetic impact that results when they come together with intent. By sprinkling philosophy, spirituality and the 8 Limbs of Yoga into her classes in accessible ways she tries to pass along the greatest gift this practice has given her, "Ultimately this is a practice of connectivity. It connects us with the world. It connects us with ourselves. And it connects us with each other."

Kevin Dougall

A Yoga nerd at heart, Kevin brings his genuine passion for Yoga to every class. He started his Yoga journey at Shanti in 2011, and has since had the pleasure of training with Ryan Leier, Srivatsa Ramaswami (vinyasa krama), and Manju Jois (ashtanga), and holds a RYT 200, and RCYT (registered children's Yoga teacher) certification with Yoga Alliance. He shares his dynamic style of practice which is fun, inspirational, and focused on the core traditions of Yoga.

Stephanie Morton

Stephanie Morton has been teaching yoga since 2011. As a long distance runner and running coach, she has worked with many endurance athletes but also has a keen interest in yoga for healthy aging.

Her approach to yoga is pragmatic but grounded in traditional teachings and yogic philosophy. Her classes combine asanas and functional movement practices with pranayama and meditation techniques that support every lifestyle. She also specializes in pre and post-natal yoga.

Originally from Halifax, she recently returned to Nova Scotia with her family after having lived and worked in Playa del Carmen, Mexico for 15 years. She has a decade of yoga studio management experience and has been a lead trainer in many 200 hours yoga teacher training courses. She is passionate about supporting and mentoring yoga teachers.

200-HOUR YOGA ALLIANCE CERTIFICATION

While the face-to-face study will be completed on the dates specified there is a distance learning component comprised of two assignments. There will also be a final exam. The assignments and final exam will have to be completed by those students wishing to become a 200-Hour Yoga Alliance Certified Teacher. Some students will take the training without the intention of becoming a Yoga teacher. You don't have to make that decision upon registration. Our experience has shown that some students who had no intention of teaching changed their minds during the program. It's a personal decision in which we are here to support and guide you when the time comes.

The face-to-face training along with your distance learning assignments and projects will give you more than 200 required hours of total training. Our training model is one of a kind as far as completing your course in your home city in limited time while taking little time off work/school. Our faculty are highly trained having studied with masters of the Yoga tradition. Their comittment is to provide a top-notch training experience with individualized coaching throughout the program.

TRAINING PREPARATION

In order to prepare for training, we ask that you continue to practice Yoga (both on and off the mat)! Your personal daily practice before the training can vary and may range from 5 minutes to 90 minutes. Your practice could include physical asanas (poses), meditation, breath work, reading a Yoga book, a quiet walk in nature, eating healthy nourishing meals, etc. We ask that you come with an open mind and open heart.

Many people take the training to simply deepen their personal practice and expand their knowledge of Yoga. It is common for people to initially think they do not want to teach but that can change once they complete the training program. Whether you plan to teach or not, it is important to have an open mind and enjoy this wonderful experience.

The daily schedule will include 30-minute breaks for breakfast and 60-minute breaks for lunch during full day sessions.

Module 2 | Living a Life of Purpose

- An exploration into the purpose of life—your dharma
- A cornerstone of your training experience, "Living a Life of Purpose" is a life-changing process that integrates time-tested ancient wisdom to help you uncover the true purpose of your life. Based on Vedic wisdom, you will learn the methods to understand the Vedic way of thinking, questioning, and self-investigation so you can emerge with a new way of thinking and being that will positively influence your relationships, and careers. The application of this knowledge is very powerful in creating positive changes in your future.
- You will learn how limiting beliefs and habits prevent you from living the life you want. This work is truly transformational and will unleash the power of your soul to become who you were meant to be. It will show you how to tap into the power to thrive!
- The Yoga tradition teaches us that there are four great goals of life, also known as the four great Dharmas which are: purpose, prosperity, pleasure and freedom. These four aspects provide the roadmap to achieving your most fulfilling, meaningful and joyful life.
